

Burntsand Appoints Michael Landino as Enterprise Content Management Practice Director, US East Region

Toronto ON, November 6, 2009. Burntsand Inc. (Burntsand) (TSX:BRT), a North American business consulting and technology services company, is announcing the hiring of Michael Landino to the position of Enterprise Content Management Practice Director for the US East Region.

Mr. Landino will be responsible for the management and delivery oversight for all Enterprise Content Management projects within the US East region. Mr. Landino is a proven leader with broad experience managing technology and support organizations and the delivery of successful large scale enterprise and Software as a Service initiatives, across the Financial and Telecommunications industries. Mr. Landino was employed by Fidelity Investments from 1999 – 2009 where he was a Vice President of Development and Program Manager for the Enterprise Content Management initiative. His experience at Fidelity also included leading development teams within the eBusiness organization delivering high scale, customer-facing web applications. Prior to Fidelity, he was an early founding engineer at Unifi Communication/Fax International and provided key managerial and technical leadership. He is a graduate of Northeastern University and holds a BS in Computer Science with a minor in Business Administration.

“Mike has had a very successful tenure with Fidelity Investments, and we are excited to be adding his experience and technology expertise to Burntsand’s delivery team”, said Martin L. Glover, Burntsand President and Chief Executive Officer. “We believe that Mike will bring significant additional value to our Enterprise Content Management customers”, added Mr. Glover.
